Notice to Contractors.

Sealed proposals for constructing the Salt River bridge located within or partly within the Tonto and Creek National Forests, State of Arizona, County of Gila, will be received by the district engineer, Bureau of Public Roads, United States Department of Agriculture, at the Salt River building, Albuquerque, N. M., until 2 p. m. of the 4th day of September, 1919, at which time and place they will be publicly opened and read. The right is reserved to reject any and all bids, and none will be considered except those from contractors ascertained to be experienced and responsible. The government reserves the right to award this contract by groups of items to different contractors in such combinations as appear most advantageous. The length of the structure to be constructed is approximately 215 feet. Lump sum bids for the superstructure will be received. The principal items of the work for the superstructure are approximately as follows: 215 cubic yards of rock excavation, 240 cubic yards of plain concrete for abutments; proportions 15:15:15. The work is to be completed on or before March 15, 1920. The contract form, plans and specifications may be examined by responsible contractors at the following address: 302 U. S. Custom House, Denver, Colorado, 215 Luna-Strickler Bldg., Albuquerque, New Mexico. Cash or certified check for at least 5 per cent of the total amount of the proposal made payable to the order of the secretary of agriculture of the United States must accompany such bid as evidence of good faith and as a guarantee that if awarded the contract, the bidder will execute the contract and give bond as required. All proposals must be made on forms and in accordance with instructions forming a part of the specifications above referred to.

Man Accused of Murder

of Archduke Ferdinand

Now Jugo Slav Official

Sarajevo, Bosnia, Aug. 28.—(Correspondence of the Associated Press.)

One of the men who were arrested by Austrian authorities after the assassination of archduke Ferdinand in 1914, is now president of the provincial government of Bosnia-Herzegovina and is recognized as one of the leaders in the movement of Jugo-Slavia. He is Anastasie Shela. He was kept in prison at hard labor during the war.

In his office in what was formerly part of an Austrian palace, Mr. Shela described his years in prison and subsequent rise to power. He is a Hercegovinian, 41 years old and considered to be a man of exceptional ability.

"One hundred and fifty-six of us were placed under arrest in 1914," he said. "There was no proof that I was in sympathy with the Jugo-Slav propaganda, but the authorities suspected what was in my heart. Sixteen of the men arrested at that time were condemned to death. The death penalties were not executed because of the remonstrance by the king of Spain, but the prison sentences were all made effective."

"I went to prison on July 28, 1914. My cell was a small one, a mere cage, and I was kept at hard labor. In October of 1918, the people of Bosnia-Herzegovina, as in other Jugo-Slav provinces of the Austro-Hungarian empire, anticipated the debacle of the empire, and organized a national council for the conduct of affairs. As soon as the Austrian army fled this council came into full executive power and the men wrongly imprisoned were released. I was released from prison on November 1, 1918, and almost immediately was chosen by the national council as president of the government of Bosnia-Herzegovina."

He said that the people generally were in sympathy with the central Jugo-Slav government at Belgrade.

Delivered Red Ant in Milk; Judge Raises Fine

Dallas, Tex., Aug. 28.—The price of milk has come up. Dallas, Tex., is now $25 each when delivered by dairymen in a bottle of sweet milk.

A local dairymen found a bottle of milk for a woman one morning this week. It had a little red ant in it. She charged him with violating the pure food law.

Judge, I bought that milk from a farmer and didn't know the ant was in it," pleaded the dairymen.

"That don't go here," replied the judge. "I have never heard of a farmer milking a cow and putting the price of ants, gnats and flies found in milk sold by dairymen was $15 each, but now dairymen are recently boosted the price of milk from 9 to 14 cents per pint. The price of ants goes up with it. I'll fine you $25."

Q. In computing amortization, what proportion would you deduct each year?

A. The proportion of allowable deduction to be allocated to each taxable year of the amortization period will be, as nearly as may be determined, the same proportion that the net income or profit derived during such taxable year bears to the entire net income or profit derived during the amortization period from the operation or use of such property.

Q. In determining and ascertaining how would you define the amounts charged to capital and those charged to expense for purpose of depreciation?

A. In the case of mining operations, all expenses for plant, equipment, development, rent and royalty prior to production, and thereafter all main items of plant and equipment, shall be charged to capital account for purposes of depreciation and depletion. After a mine has been developed and equipped to its normal and regular capacity, however, the cost of additional minor items of equipment and plant, including mules, motors, mine cars, trackways, cables, trolley wire, fans, small tools, etc., necessary to maintain the normal output because of increased length of haul or depth of working consequent on the extraction of mineral, and the cost of replacement of these and similar minor items of worn out and discarded plant and equipment, may be charged to current expense of operations, unless the taxpayer elects to write off such expenditures through charges for depreciation.

J. A. Carvel, room 17, chamber of commerce, income and excess profits tax expert, will answer any war tax questions sent the Herald.

IS SIX MONTHS ON ICE FIELD NEED FOR RANK FOR ARMY NURSE

Explorer Spends Half Year on Great Floe in Arctic Region.

Edmonton, B. C., Aug. 28.—Six months adrift on an ice floe in the Arctic sea, cut off from all civilization by miles of deep water—such was the experience of Stenker T. Storkerson, who accompanied Vilhjalmar Stefansson, explorer, on his trip to northern regions. Storkerson has just reached Edmonton from the great northern wastes. Observations of great scientific value were made while his party was on the ice floe.

Stefansson was taken ill and Storkerson, second in command, took charge of the party and proceeded without the other explorer. In the spring of 1918, after all preliminary arrangements had been made, he set out from Boder Island on March 15 with 13 men, 50 dogs and eight sleds. The object of the party was to winter for one year if possible on the ice floe and drift during this time to determine the currents, if any, in Baffin sea, to take soundings and discover land.

Four months after the party went adrift on the floe Storkerson became ill with asthma and it was decided to return to shore. On October 9, 1918, the party started again for the American continent and arrived at Cape Hallett on November 7. From Cape Hallett they proceeded to Boder Island, where they fell to with Capt. Anderson, from whom they got supplies for the winter of 1919.

Owing to certain phenomena observed by Storkerson he is inclined to think that there was land to the north of the point reached. The reason for this supposition was the fact that in the six months they were on the floe, it turned completely around. The floe was several miles wide. Seals, polar bears, ducks, geese and birds abounded on it, while shrubs and small fish apparently were the chief food for the seals.

Lover Threatens to Take Poison; All Is Now O. K.

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 28.—Julius Marks and Miss Edith Spencer had been keeping company for years. Recently they quarreled. Marks called on Miss Spencer and asked her to take a walk. She refused. Then he produced a bottle of poison and prepared to swallow it. Miss Spencer wrested the bottle from him. A police ambulance took both to the city dispensary. Marks was pronounced O. K. Marks and Miss Spencer left arm in arm and took the walk.

Dies From Heat as Father and Mother Did

Pana, Ill., Aug. 28.—Overcome by heat while driving an automobile to a ball game at Taylorville, near here, Ray Bruback, aged 27, of Edinburgh, died. His father died the same way three weeks before. His mother died the same way five years ago.

EL PASO MAN GIVES PRIZE FOR ESSAY OF JEWISH SUBJECT

Austin, Texas, Aug. 28.—Louis J. Hexter, of Dallas, a senior in the University of Texas, has been awarded the second Menorah prize for his essay "A Study of the Jewish Problem."

The Menorah societies of Texas offer annually two prizes of $50, the gift of Robert Krammer, of El Paso, and a second prize of $25 from Mr. and Mrs. Anna, of Corsicana, for the best essays on any subject dealing with the literature, history or achievement of the Jewish people.

Without It She Cannot Get the Aid to Help Her Save Life.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 28.—The nurses who served with the army in France and who were responsible for the amazing percentage of complete recovery of wounded and sick soldiers, have started a real fight here in Washington to secure relative army rank for nurses in the service. As the reason for that demand they cite experience while in the service in France and England.

Only through such a system, they say, can the nursing corps be maintained at the high standard of efficiency which American preparedness demands. In order to emphasize that reason they have asked the senate and house to grant a public hearing on the Jones-Baker bill giving relative rank to army nurses.

At this hearing, which shortly will be held, the nurses expect to show justification for their demands. One of their leaders, Mrs. Anne Calvert Neely, has prepared a statement setting forth the cause of the nurses.

In the acid test of the late war our nurses discovered that they could have cared for their wounded more efficiently had they possessed rank," she says. "And this is why the army nurses expect to show the necessity of seeing that the medical officers' orders are carried out. To do this, as the nurses have as many as 75 patients in their wards at a time, they must depend on the help of orderlies who are enlisted men, for the most part, untrained in hospital work, and constantly shifting. These men have been taught to obey officers' orders but not to obey nurses without rank or the instructions of rank."

"They think exactly what one delirious man at a base hospital kept saying to his nurse, 'I don't have to obey you. You're not an officer; you're only a nurse.'"

It has been found that this lack of rank and authority that goes with such rank results in friction between nurses and orderlies. In fact, that are dangerous—sometimes fatal. Much of the time and vitality of the nurses that should be given to the patients is wasted in struggles with untrained orderlies over whom the nurses, without rank, have no recognized authority."

H. C. L. Clothes With Regulations of Army

Chillicothe, Ohio, Aug. 28.—Military regulations were framed long before old H. C. L. chambered into the spotlight. Nevertheless the rules and regulations must be obeyed. For that reason Maj. A. N. Bassah, supply officer at camp Sherman, is to a train.

A former member of the 32d division court married in France and ordered dishonorably discharged after six months' imprisonment. He soon to be given his freedom.

Army regulations provide that he cannot retain his uniform, but must be furnished "with a suit of civilian clothing at a cost not to exceed $15."

Maj. Bassah says it simply can't be done, but orders are orders.

His Conscientious Dog Lands Him in Court

Sierra, Calif., Aug. 28.—That even a watchdog may be too conscientious in his work is the advice of forest ranger J. S. White, who was summoned for a few minutes at the home of W. J. Moffett to the mountain district and was attracted by the visit of Moffett's dog to the brush every two minutes. They were frightened and came running to J. S. White, who were stomping for a few minutes at the home of W. J. Moffett before court, where a $25 fine was inflicted. Moffett now has doubts as to the value of the dog.

Cops Give Hermit His Annual Shave and Bath; Fights Hard Against It

Dallas, Tex., Aug. 28.—John May, aged hermit who lives in a dilapidated shack in the river bottoms here, has been given his annual haircut, shave and bath. The police did the hair cutting and also administered the scrubbing. It took several of the cops to do it for John is a strong man and put up a determined struggle throughout the performance. He went to the police station with grizzly hair and beard, which reached almost to his waist. He came away with a smooth face and head and smelling like high priced toilet water.

John makes his living by mending tinware and his customers didn't recognize him when he came around the next day.

"It's not my fault, lady," said John as one of the women failed to recognize him. "Them lawless cops are what did it."

John got his first haircut, shave and bath in 26 years last year when the cops ran him in and trimmed him up.
